

Business Apprenticeships

July 2022

Apprenticeships

- You gain full time employment and get paid by your employer
- You not have long holidays
- You will be trained and able to take a nationally recognised qualification – this might be a professional qualification rather than a BTEC, A Level or Degree
- Apprentices can be paid below the minimum wage – so do look how much you will get paid – remember it is a short term pain for a long term gain

There are many different roles in business – so it is difficult to be specific so we are being general

- Apprenticeship – GOV.uk
- A very good site especially for local apprenticeships – remember we have lots of SME's in Essex. BT in Ipswich is a large business which offers apprenticeships
- Can set up an alert for your search

You search for a job/employment and not for an apprenticeship course

- There will be multi stages to the selection process – including an application form, online testing, interviews and sometimes an assessment centre.
- Opportunities will not be found in one place and they WILL NOT COME TO YOU
- Opportunities are only advertised when the company wants to recruit – the BBC apprenticeship last year was put on twitter for only 12 hours as they had enough applications in that time – so do not delay your application
- Get ready – do your research now – write a CV, research the company, look on their social media always see if they have tips on their website

- If you accept a Job and sign the contract you are committed to going.
- Always read the contract
